THEY NEED A SPANKING.

Republicans are angry with the tuhorities of the dominant church in Utah. They want help and the authorities will not furnish it. They have made threats and tried to coerce the leaders, but the church is being held aloof from politics. They are againting the polygamy question, bringing financial pressure to bear, resurrecting buried differences, reproducing old court records, ignoring others in which the Republican candidate figures, making a feature of obsolete laws, and shricking themselves hearse, for the sole purpose of making good a bluff they evidently began in dend carnest. Republicans have been humored too many times. They seem to think the church authorities are under obligations to help them out in every cara-paign. All that the Democrats of Iliah ever asked was a fair fight and no favors.

Republicans demand of the church officials that they remove a Democratic candidate from the Democratic ticket. They base their demand upon comclaints which apply with equal force to the Republican ticket. Therefore the insincerity of it all is manifest.

Should the authorities interfere they ould be denounced by Republicans for so doing. It is hard to please a pampered protectionist anyhow.
